MIAMI THREATENED BY FLOOD WATERS; PEOPLE FLEE HOMES

Lowlands Abandoned;
Draining Ditch Is Constructed

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15.—Like a thin ice glacier, a lake of flood waters draining from the Everglades, today was descending upon Miami and its vicinity.

The lake was formed when the high waters crept over the banks of the Miami canal which has already reached a flood stage at Hialeah, a suburb of Miami, and inundated hundreds of acres of land.

Many persons in the low residential sections of Hialeah have been forced to abandon their homes while the town itself faced complete isolation should the rampant waters break through the west dykes of the canal.

Meanwhile a large crew of workers was massed today at a point a few miles above Hialeah to begin work on a drainage ditch in an effort to avert the impending disaster. The city of Miami yesterday voted an emergency fund of $21,000 for the construction of this ditch, while, simultaneously, an appropriation of $1,000 was voted for relief work among those driven from their homes by the flood waters.

The drainage ditch will be cut across a narrow strip of land, north of Miami, and will empty into Biscayne Bay. Authorities were hopeful that this canal would relieve the pressure of the high waters against the weakening dyke protecting Hialeah.

Waters in the Miami Canal were two feet above sea level north of Hialeah and apprehension was felt that as the lake of high waters formed from the everglades, the flow moves seaward, the palatial residential sections in West Miami might suffer severe damage.

Relief organizations began work in the stricken area today and in many places small crafts moved about in flooded streets, removing families from the water-logged sections.

High waters had crept into the business district of Hialeah and considerable damage has been done to stocks stored in basements. Business is badly hampered there.

TWO KILLED, MANY HURT IN TRAFFIC

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 15.—Toledo police officials viewed with alarm today the report of traffic accidents in and near this city yesterday. Two persons were killed and several others were sent to hospitals with injuries.

The dead are Howard Drummond, 22, a deaf mute, who was run down and fatally injured by a traction car, and Elizabeth Makrl, a 5-year-old girl, who was the victim of a motorist.

It was pointed out that this is a heavy toll for Toledo's Monday traffic.

WILL QUIZ FIREMAN

DAYTON, O., Oct. 15.—Lieutenant Herbert J. Fleming, of the Dayton Fire Department, is to be questioned today in connection with an accident here Saturday night when Ollie Hendenreich, 20, was run down and severely injured by a hit-and-run motorist. Police said they found the license and a bumper of Fleming's car near the scene of the accident.

PADDED PAYROLLS

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 15.—Preliminary hearing is to be held in municipal court here tomorrow for David A. Reining, of Waverly, who is charged with padding the state payroll when he was highway foreman of this district.

NEW SHEPPARD BILL SPLITS CONGRESS; ANTICIPATE BATTLE

Wets, Drys, Judiciary
Divide Opinion On Proposal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The Sheppard bill to make the buyer of bootleg liquor equally guilty with the seller has split the wets, the drys, the judiciary, and the constitutionalists in congress wide open. No single question that has arisen in connection with the many-sided prohibition controversy has caused such a wide divergence of opinion among both friends and foes of Volsteadism, a survey disclosed today.

There will be a battle over it when congress convenes in regular session in December that is going to reveal some strange political bed-fellows.

Two federal district courts have held that the man who buys an illegal drink is equally guilty of a felony with the man who sells it. The circuit court of appeals, second district, has held he is not.

Senator Sheppard (D) of Texas, the so-called "father of prohibition," regards his new bill as the logical concluding step in the enforcement of prohibition. Dr. A. J. Barton, a prohibition pillar for many years, deprecates the Sheppard bill and doubts its legality or its wisdom.

The drys are split wide open—some, like Sheppard, contending that it is the logical next step, and others, like Barton, fearing that it will cause a revulsion of feeling and arouse so much opposition as to seriously menace the maintenance of Volsteadism on the statute books. They fear it is so drastic that "the country won't stand for it."

The wets are split equally wide open—some cynically hoping that the measure will pass because they sincerely believe it will "kill prohibition," and others contending that it will merely extend the "evils of the present system."

The constitutionalists of the senate merely reflect this patchwork of divergent opinion. Their opinions were sought and obtained by International News Service today and disclosed some unusual differences.

"It is a very close question," said Senator William H. Borah (R) of Idaho, who is a dry among drys, referring to the constitutionality of the measure.

"Congress naturally cannot go beyond the constitution, but the constitution prohibits the sale of liquor and there cannot be a sale without a purchaser. It is a very close question, indeed. Undoubtedly, the Supreme Court will have to pass on it."

"I think it is constitutional," said Senator Thomas J. Walsh (D) of Montana, another outstanding dry. "It would be a means of preventing the sale of liquor which the constitution forbids."

"After all, congress is authorized to pass any legislation which is necessary to prevent the sale of alcoholic liquors. If congress believes that a specific act, making it illegal to purchase liquor, would help prevent its sale, then such an act in my opinion would be constitutional. The man who buys liquor is aiding in making a sale and therefore can be punished."

A directly opposite view was taken by Senator King (D) of Utah, another constitutionalist of the senate, and also a dry.

"I have very serious doubts as to the constitutionality of such a law as Senator Sheppard proposes," said King. "Congress cannot create crimes. It can only act under the powers granted it by the constitution. To make the purchase of liquor illegal would undoubtedly create a new crime. I do not believe congress has that power."

A number of other senators, both wet and dry, evaded expressing an opinion publicly on the matter, but their opinions, privately expressed, disclosed a wide range of disagreement.

Undisturbed by the clamor, Senator Sheppard is going ahead with his plans to force a show-down on his bill as early in December as possible.

"It will pass," he said confidently. "It will pass, and it will be the cap-sheaf of prohibition."

Not a few of his dry colleagues fear that it will prove the proverbial last straw—but they are saying so in private and not in public. Meanwhile, both sides are closely observing the rife of public opinion.

DIES OF INJURIES

DAYTON, O., Oct. 15.—Injuries which he received in an automobile accident Saturday night today had caused the death of George W. Straub, 70, who was seventy-two years of age.

"GOLF RUINS BUSINESS"

Manufacturer Says Golfitis Amounts To National Hysteria In America

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—"Too much golf," That's one of the few things wrong with business today, in the opinion of George L. Markland, chairman of the Philadelphia gear works, and one of the delegates attending the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers at the Roosevelt Hotel.

"Fundamentally business is sound and getting better," said Mr. Markland in an exclusive interview this morning. "But—"

He emphasized the "but." "But too many business men and executives are afflicted with 'Golfitis,'" he declared. "Why, they're more serious about golf than about their business."

"This country is not going to produce Andrew Carnegies, Charles Schwabs, J. Pierpont Morgans, Henry Fords and John Wanamakers on the golf links. No, sir! And take the Carnegies and the Wanamakers out of industry and industry will collapse."

The silver-haired, 61-year-old manufacturer (he calls himself "just a kid") warmed up to his subject.

"The country is in the throes of a mad race for pleasure. Golf, the movies, radios, world series, big football games, dancing—everybody thinking of how to have a good time and not enough thinking on how to use their hands and their brains."

"It's a form of hysteria," Mr. Markland recalled how, for years, when he was building up his gear business he was down to work at 6 a. m.

"Where do you find business men now at 6 a. m.?" he inquired. "On the golf links. One day a week for golf isn't enough any more. It's every day."

"And a lot of these business men can't stand it, physically. It's tiring them out. They're all in when they reach their offices."

"Why, we had a business meeting scheduled here yesterday and a lot of the manufacturers were absent. Where were they? Out playing golf and taking in the shows."

"I have always believed that a man gets more pleasure out of work-out of achievement—than out of play. I believe everyone should relax. If a busy man did not he would break down. Golf once in a while is all right but too much is all wrong."

The "hysteria" of Americans for a good time is also manifested by working men who are bent on establishing a five-day week, Markland said.

He also had a word or two for the people who are trying to get rich in the stock market so that they can have more leisure for play.

GAMBLERS INACTIVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The 1929 world series which ended yesterday with Bing Miller's double saw less money wagered on the outcome than any post-season affair in history, Broadway commissioners declare.

In contrast with the Yankee-Cards series in 1926 and the Yankees and Cards in '27 and '28, where millions were wagered, very little money changed hands during the series just completed.

The betting commissioners attribute the light betting to the fact that the Athletics were such strong favorites from beginning to end.

SENATE COMMITTEE STARTS WITH PROBE OF TARIFF BUREAU

Influence In Rate Questions Object Of Committee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The greatest lobby investigation ever undertaken by the senate got under way today with a senatorial committee turning its spotlight directly on activities of the United States tariff commission.

The initial effort of the senate inquirers was to learn whether the tariff commission ever changed its decisions on rate questions because of political influence or industrial pressure. This phase of the inquiry involved the pottery industry since the first witnesses were Frederick L. Koch, pottery expert on the tariff commission, and William Burgess, former commissioner now affiliated with the U. S. Pottery Association.

"We want to find out first whether any commissioner ever changed his vote on an important rate question under threats of losing his job," explained Senator T. H. Caraway (D) of Arkansas, chairman of the investigating committee. "After that, we will take up the activities of the sugar lobby before going on to other matters."

In connection with the sugar lobby, the committee subpoenaed Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the tariff commission, and Edgar B. Brossard, member. They apparently will be questioned about political pressure brought on the commission in 1923 to prevent a report on the sugar duty. This report was filed subsequently with President Coolidge and urged a sweeping reduction of the sugar tariff.

Hoover Thrilled
By Athletic Win

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—President Hoover got a real thrill out of the sensational ninth-inning rally of the Athletics, which won for Connie Mack his fourth world's championship at Philadelphia late yesterday.

Preserving his benevolent neutrality until that fateful ninth, Mr. Hoover joined with thousands of other spectators in warmly applauding the victorious Mackmen, and then hurried to catch his train back to the capital.

The presidential party, the second ever to have attended a world series away from Washington, returned to Washington last night well pleased with the outing.

MAN HANGS SELF

DAYTON, O., Oct. 15.—William P. Steffen, 68, was found dead hanging in a clothes closet of his apartment home here early today.

CAPITAL'S POLICE SCANDAL PROBED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Three Year Old Murder
Is Revived By Probers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The capital's police scandal, already odorous enough to have caused a drastic shake-up, was enlivened still further today by the determination of a senate committee to go probing into the three-year-old mystery surrounding the death of Detective Sergeant Arthur B. Scrivener.

Scrivener was found dead in a Georgetown alley three years ago. He had been shot through the heart. A pistol lay beside the body and in the right hand of the dead detective there was clutched a torn piece of necktie, indicating that the officer had grappled with his assailant. Scrivener's own service gun was in his holster, unfired.

Despite the circumstantial evidence pointing to murder, the detective bureau contended it was a case of suicide and the case was hastily closed on that basis.

Now, Senators Heflin (D) of Alabama and Blease (D) of South Carolina, aroused by other evidence of police inefficiency, promise to reopen the case and make startling insinuations that the detective was killed by someone in the detective bureau.

"I intend to show who murdered him," said Blease.

"There is reason to believe he was killed by someone in the service," said Heflin.

"I think so," added Blease. "It has long been rumored that a box of cartridges to fit the gun found beside the body was discovered in the locker of a brother detective."

Scrivener's father, who lives at Winchester, Va., and a brother who is a detective on the Akron, O., force, are advocating a reopening of the case.

BYSTANDER SHOT IN POLICE-GANG DUEL

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 15.—An innocent bystander was shot and probably fatally wounded and two men, including a city police officer, were wounded in a fracas on Vine Street here early today.

The fight ensued when five men attempted to prevent Patrolman William McMillen, 36, from arresting two men.

Walter B. Moore, 24, a bystander, was shot in the gun fight which followed a brief argument. Doctors at the hospital where he was taken, said that the man would not live.

Patrolman McMillen was also wounded in the fray as was another man, whose name has not been learned. Neither is believed to be in a serious condition.

BRIDE STARTS FIGHT TO GET HUSBAND'S BODY

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Margaret Martin, 18, a bride of a month—now a widow—is to face the relatives of her dead husband, Frederick Martin, 19, in Judge John R. King's court here today to fight for possession of the body of her mate.

The young couple had been married in Covington, Ky., a month ago, against the wishes of Martin's relatives.

The husband died Sunday night at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary McSweeney, pneumonia being the cause. Tentative funeral arrangements which were made by the relatives provide for chapel services here tonight and burial of the body in a Sidney cemetery tomorrow.

Mrs. Martin insists that her husband be buried in a Columbus cemetery and she carried her plea to the courts.

HOLD "MODEL HUSBAND" IN SLAYING OF GIRL

John E. Preston, 32, a Chicago interior decorator, left, snapped at the Wheaton, Ill., jail being questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Russell Keeney and Coroner Ishewood, following the finding of the body of Miss Agnes Johnson, 26, right, strangled to death near a weed-grown roadside at West Chicago. According to Miss Mathilda Murphy, chum of the slain girl, Preston took the two of them for a ride and caged. Preston has denied the killing, declaring it to be the work of two men who followed him in another machine. Inset above, is Mrs. Lillian Preston, his wife, as she stood at the entrance to the Wheaton jail while her husband was questioned. She maintained that Preston had been a "model mate."

DAWES ARRIVES IN STATES FOR VISIT; DENIES INTERVIEW

Madame Curie Also On Ship, Tired From Journey

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—General Charles G. Dawes, United States ambassador to Great Britain and the "man behind the peace guns" in the disarmament negotiations between President Hoover and Premier Ramsay MacDonald, arrived here today aboard the Ile De France for a brief stay and disappointed an army of reporters at the pier by declining to discuss the Anglo-American peace negotiations or the part he played in leading up to them.

Also aboard the liner was Mme. Curie, the "grandmother of science," co-discoverer of radium, who has come here to obtain another gram of the precious substance for use in her experimentation.

Mme. Curie was willing to talk, but as she explained in a statement prepared for presentation to interviewers, her "physical condition" precluded the possibility of her talking to reporters. The strain of the journey had told on the aged woman scientist, and she expressed her regret at being forced to remain in her stateroom.

Ambassador Dawes played the role of the experienced diplomat, and although he is unanimously accredited with making the recent epochal visit of Premier MacDonald a possibility through the negotiations he launched immediately after his arrival in London, he flatly refused to discuss "official business."

The general, a striking figure in a natty blue suit with white pencil stripes, had between his teeth "the same old" underslung pipe that he was puffing on many months ago when he sailed to take over the ambassadorship.

FRENCH ACCEPT BID

PARIS, Oct. 15.—The French cabinet today decided to accept Great Britain's invitation to the proposed five power naval conference to be held in London in the early part of next year.

The decision of Premier Briand's cabinet was expected but nevertheless smoothed uneasiness in certain diplomatic quarters.

CAPONE EXECUTIONER QUIZZED IN BILLY M'SWIGGIN MURDER

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—"Who killed Billy McSwiggin and why?" Also, who killed Cook Robin? This age-old puzzle—one which police have attempted to solve since Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin met death in a gangland roadside several years ago, was again the leading question today following the arrest and interrogation of Frank Biege, alias Perry, who is termed by police as "chief executioner for Scarface Al Capone."

"Machine Gun" Jack McGurn was also called that. So were a host of others.

The "inside office" was said today to have some special "dope" on the activities of Biege, but Chief of Detectives John Steghe, scoffed at the idea Biege was the killer of McSwiggin, "Bugs" Moran's men, and other gangsters.

"All he has is a reputation as a petty stickup man," said Steghe. "If this bird had been doing as much monkey business with machine guns as some of these coppers think he did, we would have known all about him long ago. Sure he may know a lot about gangland killings. So do I. But, have you ever heard of one of these birds cracking yet? They don't."

Biege's wife wrote two threatening letters to Capone in a Philadelphia prison, both of which were intercepted. She demanded $10,000 for "hush money" or threatened that Biege, whom she said was "holding the bag," would "squawk."

"I'm asking you for the last time for ten thousand and get it to us fast," read the last letter in part. "Frank's sick of you leaving him to hold the bag. You kick across or Frank will go to police and spill the works. Remember, everything."

Frank is now arrested and has been grilled by the best "grillers" in the state's attorney's office and he hasn't "spilled" or "squawked" or "cracked" or given any intimation that he is conversant with any gangland activities. He failed to avail himself of this "golden opportunity." Nor did Frank get the $10,000 from Capone.

"You know," said Steghe philosophically, "how these cheap stickup guys are. They make a big noise with the missus about just how big they are when they've pulled a minor stickup and she gets all 'het up' and thinks he's a big shot."

"If he was a big shot, don't worry, he wouldn't crack to anyone, least of all his wife because she's everything."

Following the completion of the redirect examination of Beal today the defense will call another of the defendants to the stand. All of them probably will testify before the defense rests its case. Of the remaining defendants Clarence Miller, an organizer for the young Communist League, is the only one affiliated with the Communist party.

Steele Will Wed

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 15.—John R. Steele, Broadway's famous lyric tenor, who was named in the Iman divorce case, and Miss Janet Hackett, a featured dancer on the Keith circuit, are to be married.

LEWIS W. REIGEL IS ELECTROCUTED BY HIGH VOLTAGE WIRE

Fellow Workmen Lose
Long Attempt To Restore Life

Lewis W. Reigel, 55, 151 Second St., lineman for The Dayton Power and Light Co. was electrocuted when he came in contact with a high voltage wire while at work on a company pole in front of a new garage under construction on the Springfield Pike near the lane leading to the Xenia Country Club at 2:4 p. m. Monday.

Reigel, who was engaged with other workmen in removing the pole from in front of gasoline tanks to accommodate the garage, is believed to have touched the high tension wire accidentally when he waved his hand to his foreman, Frank Weiss, who was at work on a new pole eight feet away.

In the opinion of fellow workmen, Reigel came in contact with a high voltage wire carrying 12,000 volts when the first finger on his left hand struck the wire as he waved.

Notwithstanding the great amount of current that had passed through his body, Reigel called his foreman that he had touched high tension wire. Weiss left the pole on which he was working, and taking a rope climbed the pole to aid the stricken man.

Held in place by his safety belt, Reigel was standing upright when he was rescued when Weiss reached him, he reported. As the foreman attempted to pass the rope around Reigel's waist, the body became limp and it is the belief that death occurred when the body slumped.

The injured man was lowered to the ground and heroic efforts were made by fellow workmen directed by three physicians to restore circulation, using the prone pressure method of resuscitation.

The accident occurred as Reigel was about to take some wire from the cross bar of the pole on which he was working. It was to be removed for a new one.

Hopeful that a slight spark of life remained, members of the crew, which he worked under Weiss, volunteered first aid. Soon afterward other workmen were engaged in working over the body in relays until all hope of saving him was abandoned.

The futile life-saving work lasted nearly three hours and was directed by Dr. Frank M. Chambliss, county coroner, Dr. W. A. Gallo way, company physician, and Dr. Marshall Best, who were summoned and immediately took charge.

A particular task was assigned to each man. Whiskey was injected into the muscles over the heart by the three doctors in an attempt to stimulate circulation. The unconscious man was also given adrenalin and a strychnine injection.

Finally the work of attempted resuscitation was abandoned about 5:30 p. m. when the physicians decided the stricken man was passed help and the workers who had labored to save his life were called off.

Reigel, who had been engaged as a lineman in different cities practically all his life, was born in Dawn, O., Darke County. He was a resident of Dayton for twenty years, moving to Washington, C. H. several years ago. He had been employed by the power company in Dayton for fifteen years when he resigned. Later he went to Oregon and upon returning to Washington C. H. resumed his position with the Dayton company.

His wife, Lucy, died August 24 and he is survived by one daughter, Marguerite at home.

Reigel came to Xenia to live two years ago and has since been employed as lineman for the Xenia branch of the Dayton company. He was a member of Dayton Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Other surviving relatives included Mrs. Charles Kent, 27 Fairgrounds Ave., Dayton, and David and Peter Reigel, brothers, who live at Dawn, O.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the United Brethren Church. Friends may call at the home, 15 E. Second St., anytime after 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT $1,300 CAUSED BY STOCK YARDS BLAZE

Damage estimated at $1,500, covered by insurance, was caused by fire which destroyed a one-story barn in the Pennsylvania Railroad stockyards and damaged two other barns before it was brought under control by firemen late Monday night.

The blaze started in a barn owned by the Greene County Live-stock Shipping Association and because of a quantity of straw and hay stored inside, the frame building burned to the ground.

The flames spread to a two-story barn situated directly across a narrow alley on the south side in the rear of property at 130 Hill St., owned by J. W. Faulkner, Hill St., and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis. This barn was used for garage purposes. The roof and upper story were burned away but two automobiles kept on the lower floor were pulled out safely.

Another two-story barn situated on the railroad property, west of the structure which was destroyed and facing the alley, also caught fire but only the side nearest the flames was slightly damaged. It was also owned by the shipping association. A truck owned by Mr. Faulkner kept inside was removed.

When discovered at 10:48 p. m., by Albert Chenoweth, Hill St., the flames had obtained great headway and firemen confined their efforts to saving adjoining buildings from being destroyed. The blaze was brought under control at 11:30.

Origin of the fire is undetermined but firemen are of the opinion that tramps may have been responsible.

Firemen experienced trouble in reaching the blaze. Access to the stockyards was finally gained by the fire trucks through an alley off of Hill St.

Several hundred people were attracted by the flames, which lighted up the vicinity for blocks around.

SPRING VALLEY MAGNETIC WELL SOLD TO CINCINNATI INTERESTS

Sale of the properties of The Spring Valley Magnetic Water Co. on the Bellbrook-Spring Valley Pike, near Spring Valley, to Cincinnati interests for a consideration that was not disclosed, was announced by company officials Tuesday.

The purchaser is John C. Casey, Cincinnati contractor, who represents a number of associates interested in the enterprise. Plans for promotion of the property, long famous because of a well from which healing waters are obtained in a number of ailments, have not been announced.

Drilled in 1884, the well has been in existence for forty-five years. Later the flow of water ceased but in 1923 the well was dug to a depth of 1,460 feet and an apparently unlimited vein of the healing water was encountered.

A company was organized, stock sold and there are now thirty-two stockholders, including a number of Xenians.

An analysis of the water by a chemist was quite formidable in the matter of names applied to the various components. The finding of this "fountain of youth" formerly brought a continuous stream of visitors to Spring Valley and often the streets of the village were completely filled with equipages of all descriptions, containing people who each brought some kind of a vessel in which to carry away a portion of the healing waters.

The property includes six acres of land and a two-story, seven-room residence. There is also an artesian magnetic spring in addition to the well water. A pump installed near the residence is capable of pumping twenty gallons a minute all day.

The company has been selling between 3,000 and 5,000 gallons a year to patrons within a radius of sixty miles of Xenia.

LeRoy Brower, president and manager of the company, which has been in existence seven years, lives on the property. Adolph Moser, treasurer, and Attorney George H. Smith, secretary, are both Xenians. These officers along with W. P. Bentley, W. J. Kennedy and M. J. Jacoby, all of Xenia, form the board of directors.

MACK CONCEDED FIFTH GAME TO CUBS BEFORE RIOTOUS RALLY

Malone Pitched Superbly Until Ninth, When He Made Two Mistakes; Connie Praises Joe; Series Was Financial Success

By DAVIS J. WALSH

International News Service Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Outside, a city bereft of all reason shrieked its paen of joy, capering, gibbering, rioting with an abandon that was boundless. It had just been a witness of the most incoherent spectacle a world series ever had known, a chills and fever finish that had brought glorious victory and a world's championship to Philadelphia, tragic defeat and a sense of sickening disaster to Chicago.

Inside, the dressing room was dark and its vast quiet, by comparison, was ominous. Newspapermen, callous souls usually, waited with unwonted consideration, their voices lowered to a respectful note.

The curtain had been lowered for the last time. "Mule" Haas and "Bing" Miller, the stars of the piece, had bowed themselves off. Probably the greatest drama of world series ever had produced was over. And the old maestro, having outlived the years to see this day come true, was unable to take his curtain call. Connie Mack, the man who made the miracle possible, had collapsed in his hour of triumph.

That was yesterday, five minutes after Haas had hit a home run over the fence, tying the score with one out in the ninth inning, and Miller had followed with a double to right center, scoring Simmons with the winning run.

Today, the world, having indulged itself in its orgy of emotion, was at peace again and Connie Mack, himself once more, was able to make the curtain speech that the choler of his advancing years had denied him yesterday. It was typical that his first word was a tribute to the rival manager, Joe McGarity, and his second a frank admission that he had conceded this fifth game of the series to the Cubs and had been rehearsing his plans for a sixth game that never came.

That was how fine they drew this series, in spite of the fact that the Athletics won four of the five games and outlived the outlived the Cubs from first to last. They never out-ran the Cubs for one split-second. And the half-raising of flags Saturday and yesterday, far from improving this declaration, actually sustained it. The Athletics, actually sustained it. The Athletics, actually sustained it.

On Saturday, the Cubs were in front, 8 to 0, going into the final half of the seventh inning and were beaten by a record ten-run rally. This was made possible alike by Charley Root's inexplicable collapse, a blinding sun that caused Mack Wilson to lose two flies in the same inning and a pebble that caused Simmons' smash to leap gladly over McMillan's head.

Yesterday, the Cubs went into the last half of the ninth behind a 2 to 0 lead. The Athletics' cause was all but hopeless. The first man French, a pinch hitter, was brushed down on strikes and hope's tiny flame flickered and almost died. Over a period of eight and one-third

Looking forward into the future when there may be a dearth of football talent at Xenia Central High School, this possibility is being guarded against by the organization of a combined eighth grade and freshman grid team at the high school this season.

Sixteen eighth graders and four freshmen turned out for practice Monday afternoon, working out and learning fundamentals under the capable supervision of Glen Patterson, assistant high school coach. It will be Pat's task to teach the young but willing recruits the rudiments of the ancient and honorable art of football, experience expected when they become candidates for high school teams.

It is probable that several games will be booked this season for the team. The first game may be played in two weeks against Dayton Oakwood High if it can be arranged.

Two other Miami Valley League schools annually put freshman football teams in the field, thereby providing good material for the high school teams in after years.

Two existing league records were shattered as the Buicks won two out of three games from the champion Greene County Lumber Co. in a Recreation League bowling match Monday night. In winning the second game the Buicks totaled 1,018 pins, exceeding the previous record of 993. The team single game, also held by the team, by twenty-five pins. Patterson's record of 234 for high individual game was bettered by one pin when Hollis Peterson, anchor man for the lumber company quintet, rolled 235 the second game. The winners amassed a three-game total of 2,750. Box score:

JAMESTOWN SEASON MOST SUCCESSFUL; ONLY FOUR DEFEATS

Barney A. C. Club And Reserves Nemesis Of Team

The Jamestown Independent baseball team recently ended a successful season with a record of fourteen victories against four defeats to show for eighteen games played.

The Independents, after losing their first game of the season, braced up and won the next two, then were defeated by the Barney A. C. team of Dayton in eleven innings. Then five straight games were won, when they met the Barney O. C.'s for the second time, and were again defeated in eleven innings. The Independents again won five straight games, but their winning streak was again broken, when they lost to the Xenia Reserves, for the county title.

Only two of the victories were a shut out, but the Independents compiled a total of 117 runs, an average of better than eight to a game as compared to 67 markers for opposing teams, an average of slightly better than three and a half a game, indicating the team had pitched good pitching while the batting has been consistently good. Evans was on the mound in every game, except one, Lucas pitching the Fourth of July game.

Games played and scores: Reo Flying Clouds, 9; James, 3. Irish A. C., 5; Jamestown 13. Benny A. C., 3; Jamestown, 5. Shamrocks, 2; Jamestown, 3. Barney A. C., 5; Jamestown, 4.

Cedarville Meets Kentucky Eleven

None the worse for the Ohio Northern game as far as its physical condition is concerned, Cedarville College's football squad commenced practice this week for the game with Kentucky Wesleyan at Winchester, Ky., Saturday.

Return of Peters, end and Marshall, tackle, who have been recuperating from knee injuries, cheered Coach Marvin Borst Monday afternoon as the squad held a light workout.

Barring injuries in practice this week the entire squad is expected to be in fine physical condition for the Kentucky Wesleyan tilt.

WITHROW WILL BE "EQUIPMENT DAY" Foe Here Next Friday

Battered in body by the fierce rushes of Piqua's fighting team but aroused to the necessity of making a better showing in coming games, Xenia Central High School's football team begins work this week in preparation for the invasion of the Withrow High School Tigers of Cincinnati Friday afternoon at Cox Field.

In a sense this will be the homecoming game of the season for the Buccaneers for the day will be celebrated as annual "Equipment Day," so called because all proceeds from the contest above expenses will be used to purchase athletic equipment for Xenia team next year.

The Withrow game is not fraught with much uncertainty but the Bucos can rest content if they make an improved showing over the last two games which have resulted in overwhelming defeats. It will be difficult, however, to hold the Tigers to a low score as Withrow, represented by its strongest team in years, has whipped all opponents by overwhelming scores this season.

Xenia Central followers, after watching Piqua ride rough shod over the Bucos for a 34 to 6 victory last Saturday, have small hopes of winning from Withrow but hope only that the heavy Cincinnati eleven will not damage Wilson's squad physically any more than necessary as a majority of the players will be crippled even before the game starts.

The will be no lack of interest in the game, however, for the student body is laying plans to stimulate enthusiasm. Starting at 7 o'clock Thursday night, there will be one of those old-fashioned "pep" parades through the business district of the city, probably winding up in a march to the athletic field or Shawnee Park where a huge bonfire will be kindled and "pep" tanks made.

It is also possible there may be another parade of students Friday noon and also an assembly of the student body on the morning of the day of the game in order to arouse the students to lending their vocal as well as moral support to the Buccaneers against Withrow.

The squad was in such a bristled condition Monday afternoon that Coach Wilson called for practice but the gridders probably would have liked the ordeal of a workout much more than the lecture which the Xenia mentor gave the players instead. "Pinky" told them what faults must be corrected in no uncertain terms and the team that takes the field Friday will be a scrappy one at least.

No scrimmage will be indulged

THE HAPPIEST MAN

Says Walter B. Pitkin, in his new book, "The Psychology of Happiness": "The happiest man in all the world is probably the one who, having only one powerful urge, also has both the energy and the intelligence to get what he wants and is lucky enough to have as his single ambition one that is fully approved and encouraged by the community in which he lives."

Dr. Pitkin heads this section of his discussion, "The Single-Track Mind." He proceeds to picture a surgeon who is "all wrapped up in his work" and knows nothing at all except surgery. He is a successful surgeon, but he can't even indulge in dinner-table talk unless the diners care to hear about particularly interesting surgical cases. Dr. Pitkin thinks that this is the happiest of all humans.

Do you agree? I don't. It happens that I know just such a surgeon, with just such a single-track mind. He is a wonder with the scalpel and saw. I'd rather trust my appendix to him than to any other person in the world.

But he doesn't know anything else. He doesn't even know medicine; just surgery. He was born with clever fingers, and he learned anatomy well because of his overpowering desire to be a good surgeon. He has made plenty of money, and he knows many people who look upon him as a miracle-worker.

He isn't very happy. He can't help knowing that his range of knowledge is more limited than that of almost anybody he meets at the clubs he frequents. The woman who scrubs his office floor knows more about the world we live in than does this hard-working surgeon.

This kind of single-track phenomenon is always unhappy because unhappiness as have other folk. He can have family and financial worries. But even if he hasn't them, he hates to leave his workroom for fear he may expose his ignorance of the things everybody else knows something about.

No, I don't believe Dr. Pitkin is on the right scent here at all. He has written a very interesting book about happiness, and he knows his psychology. But he has overstated the case for the man of the single-track mind.

A happier person is one who is able to take an interest in almost anything pertaining to living, loving, dying, thinking, or being. The wider the interests of the individual, the greater his capacity for knowing, and also the greater his capacity for happiness.

Poems that Live

TO THE GRASSHOPPER AND THE CRICKET

GREEN little vaulter in the sunny grass, Catching your heart up at the feel of June

Sole voice that's heard amidst the lazy moon,

When even the bees lag at the summoning brass;

And you, warm little housekeeper, who class

With those who think the candles come too soon,

Loving the fire, and with your tricksome tune

Nick the glad silent moments as they pass;

O sweet and tiny cousins, that belong

One to the fields, the other to the hearth,

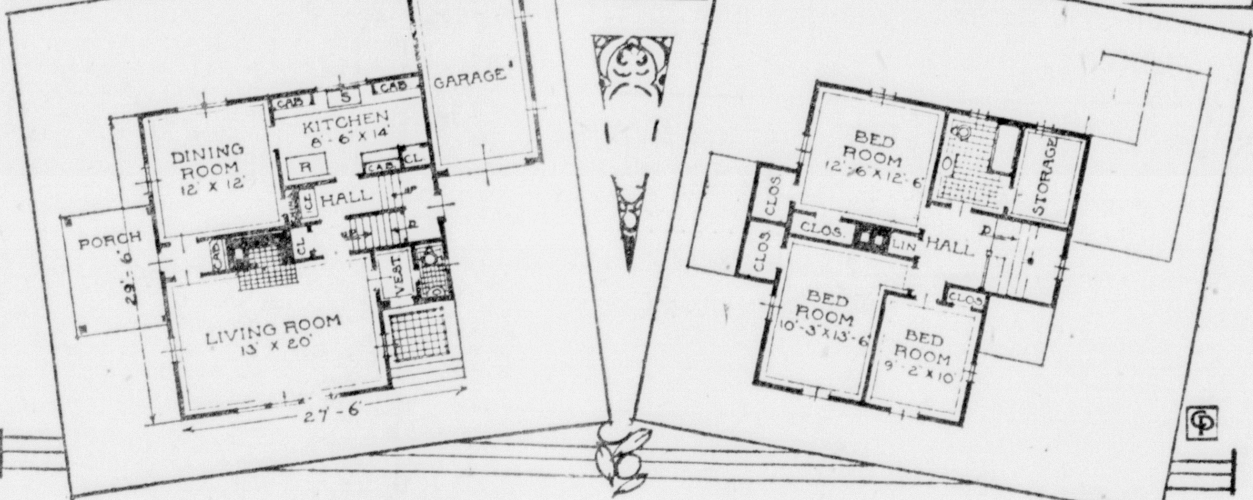

Both have your sunshine; both, though small, are strong

At your clear hearts; and both seem given to earth

To sing in thoughtful ears their natural song—

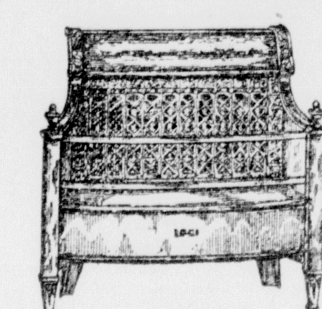

Indoors and out, summer and winter, Mirth.

Leigh Hunt (1784-1859)

The popularity of the colonial style of architecture continues to spread all over the country. Several desirable features are incorporated in this house designed by Robert L. Stevenson, Boston architect. There is a tie-up of garage and house, with the long, sloping roof covering the garage. The service door is placed so that it can be used as an exit in inclement weather. The first floor plan shows a good sized living room and well lighted dining room, with efficient kitchen units. The stairs are lighted by an arched window, and there are three bedrooms, two large closets, bath and storage closet on the second floor. The house content is 24,040 cubic feet, and could be built in the New York area for $12,020.

Paper Money Has Value!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

An ancient prejudice nursed the ignorant fear and distrust of paper money. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE inspires the faith which completely accepts the printed obligation. In the interest of convenience and safety, its use is universal.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

TUNE IN—The Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, every Saturday night, over a coast-to-coast network of the N. B. C.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

UNEARTH "MESSIAH'S THRONE" IN PROBE OF CULT

Under the beliefs of the weird cult "The Church of the Divine Science of Joshua the Branch the He stone of the Corner," now being investigated in Los Angeles, following the jailing of its leaders, it been reported that a baby born in the cult's Santa Susana mountain colony is to be a second Mess. The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dingman, disclaim the reports. Above, standing, Dale Zalonic Dingman; seated, Bessie Stewart, Mrs. Flora Dingman and Walter Dingman. "Baby J. C." is seated on Mrs. Dingman's lap. At right, the "Christ Chair," prepared for the coming of the Mess. It is said. It weighs 500 pounds and is finished entirely in gold. No one ever has been allowed to sit it.

CHATTY GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDER," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND."

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

CHAPTER LV
"But how can you, Agnes?" Chatty asked. "I have no reference! Mr. Van Nuy's wouldn't give me one, now!"

"I'll give you a reference!" smiled Agnes. "Mr. Ellerby is a very influential man. What he says, goes. And what I say goes with him, if you know what I mean!"

"Good heavens! Are you going to marry the president of the Midland Bank?" gasped Chatty.

Agnes blushed. "Yes!" she admitted. "I'm a very lucky girl, in more ways than one."

"I thought—I thought of applying for work under only part of my name—Charlotte Corday. The Chatterton is so notorious now." She blushed.

"Not!" decided Agnes. "You must be honest, Chatty. A false name, even if it is your own, is deceptive. Then your employer will find it out—and bludge!"

Agnes nodded her well-poised head, confidently.

The wizardry of love worked its miracle. Mr. Ellerby, it appeared, had only to wave his magician's wand and jobs appeared by magic. A P. B. X. operator was needed at Tolson and Partridge's, another bond house. Following instructions, Chatty applied to Mr. Tolson in person.

Mr. Tolson was little and fat and round, and looked like a stout cherub. But he had keen eyes and a firm mouth. Chatty liked him at sight.

"Oh, yes, Miss Chatterton. Know all about you. Ellerby says you had a job with Van Nuy's, made a mess of yourself, got into trouble, straightened up and went to try again. That all true?"

"Yes, sir!" answered Chatty. "It's all true. I—I was in the newspapers. Must I tell you all about it?"

"Certainly not! If it's bygone, let it stay bygone! Ellerby says you are vouched for to him and he vouches for you to me. You going to live up to the vouching?"

"Oh, Mr. Tolson, I am—I will! If you only knew how sorry and ashamed I am—and how hard I'll try!"

"Don't want to know! Not your father confessor! Twenty a week to start and five more a week in six months if you make good at the job! Satisfied?"

Murray Anderson, whose revue, "Murray Anderson's Almanac," is the most successful on Mazda Lane these Autumn days, has left success in New York and gone to Hollywood to start the machinery for the Paul Whiteman Revue. That is the piece that Universal, together as co-stars in "Troopers Three" an Arthur Guy Empey war story being filmed at the Presidio at Monterey for Tiffany-Stahl. Colonel Roger Fitch is proving a good army technician in the talkies. A number of stars besides the portly Whiteman will add their talents to the completed cinema. When Anderson finishes this opus he will go to Famous Players for two productions. Anderson is rated as very much an artist and unique in clothing revue conceptions. Years ago he was signed by the Publix group to create presentations for their theaters.

FINDS HIS CAREER

Radio Claims Tenor Who Began As Court Stenographer

ALAN RAY

RAY WORKED AS AS COURT STENOGRAPHER

ACCOUNTANT AND REAL ESTATE SALESMAN TO BECOME A GREAT RADIO TENOR

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.)

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Central Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Alan Ray

is a dual personality. It is rare that we find the heart of an artist and the brain of an engineer all mixed up in the same person.

Zanesville, O., claims the clever tenor as a native son. His career is one of the most interestingly hectic one we have yet encountered on the air.

Began as Stenographer

First he was a court stenographer in Columbus. Then he took up accounting, thinking it a wider field for study and broadening. Being a professional entertainer was the farthest thing from his mind. He worked as an accountant for Henry Ford for some time. Let us hope he didn't have to keep count of the flivvers!

Then came the Florida real estate boom—and who should be found laboring feverishly among the perspiring get-rich-quickers and the Southern palms—but our celebrated (but then unknown) Mr. Ray. During this time he liked to sing—and studied voice off and on as a hobby. Once in awhile he appeared as an amateur, singing with a jazz band.

Finally his friends began to bring pressure to bear saying that an artist like himself was positively crushing his soul dealing in figures and worrying about engineering problems! There it was then! The soul of an artist battling against the brain of an engineer.

Still Is Methodical

The artist finally won and Allen Ray, in a very short time, was a celebrated addition to the "mike." He hasn't quite gotten over his desire to be methodical, however. Alan has every song in almost every language one can imagine in his library. They are filed—each in their own little place and with their own number, with such beautiful precision that he can go in the dark and find them. It is the despair of every impatient "artist" he knows.

Alan's great joy in life is his mother. It is almost amusing to try to get a few interesting things about himself from him. Everything is "MY MOTHER." She is Mary Weston Seaman—also a star on the air—who does "Browsing Among Books."

He paid her one of the loveliest compliments we have ever heard when he sat back shining-eyed and proud and said:

"You must meet my mother. She is an ARTIST at LIVING!"

Enthusiastic Son

Then he told of their apartment in New York and how they had gone out bargain hunting together and fixed it up with lovely drapes, pretty nickknacks—and how he painted an old cabinet in lacquer and Mother bought just the vase to enhance it!

Carbon that won't foul even a spark plug

can't choke a high-compression engine

How often has the rattle of a carbon knock found you dropping back a little...babying your car...slowing down on every hill?

And needlessly! For there is one oil—Shell Motor Oil—which stops carbon before it starts. Shell Motor Oil has an extremely low carbon content—far less than other fine oils, including many selling at a higher price.

And the small amount of carbon which forms in a Shell-lubricated engine is soft, fluffy and completely non-fouling...it actually blows away with the exhaust gases. It won't foul even a spark plug. It can't clog a high-compression engine.

Regular users of Shell Motor Oil report a marked saving in carbon removal jobs. They enjoy freedom from power losses due to

"frozen" piston rings and carbon-pitted valves. And they know the complete satisfaction which comes from driving a sweet-running automobile.

Shell Motor Oil is prepared only from Nature's richest lubricating crude by the new Shell low-temperature refining process. And before it reaches you, it is tested 259 times to certify that every quart possesses the four essentials of correct lubrication: Low Carbon Content, Non-Fouling Carbon, Ideal Body at All Operating Temperatures, and Low Pour Point.

MIAMI THREATENED BY FLOOD WATERS, PEOPLE FLEE HOMES

Lowlands Abandoned; Draining Ditch Is Constructed

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15.—Like a thin ice glacier, a lake of flood waters draining from the Everglades, today was descending upon Miami and its vicinity.

The lake was formed when the high waters crept over the banks of the Miami canal which has already reached a flood stage at Hialeah, a suburb of Miami, and inundated hundreds of acres of land.

Many persons in the low residential sections of Hialeah have been forced to abandon their homes while the town itself faced complete isolation should the rampant waters break through the west dykes of the canal.

Meanwhile a large crew of workers was massed today at a point a few miles above Hialeah to begin work on a drainage ditch in an effort to avert the impending disaster. The city of Miami yesterday voted an emergency fund of $21,000 for the construction of this ditch, while, simultaneously, another appropriation of $1,000 was voted for relief work among those driven from their homes by the flood waters.

The drainage ditch will be cut across a narrow strip of land, north of Miami, and will empty into Biscayne Bay. Authorities were hopeful that this canal would relieve the pressure of the high waters against the weakening dikes protecting Hialeah.

Waters in the Miami Canal were two feet above sea level north of Hialeah and apprehension was felt that as the lake of high waters formed from the everglades overflow moves seaward, the palatial residential sections in West Miami might suffer severe damage.

Relief organizations began work in the stricken area today and in many places small crafts moved about in flooded streets, removing families from the water-logged sections.

High waters had crept into the business district of Hialeah and considerable damage has been done to stocks stored in basements. Business is badly hampered there.

"GOLF RUINS BUSINESS"

Manufacturer Says Golfitis Amounts To National Hysteria In America

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—"Too much golf." That's one of the few things wrong with business today, in the opinion of George L. Markland, chairman of the Philadelphia gear works, and one of the delegates attending the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers at the Roosevelt Hotel.

"Fundamentally business is sound and getting better," said Mr. Markland in an exclusive interview this morning. "But—"

He emphasized the "but."

"But too many business men and executives are afflicted with 'Golfitis,'" he declared. "Why, they're more serious about golf than about their business."

"This country is not going to produce Andrew Carnegies, Charles Schwabs, J. Pierpont Morgans, Henry Fords and John Wanamakers on the golf links. No, sir! And take the Carnegies and the Wanamakers out of industry and industry will collapse."

The silver-haired, 61-year-old manufacturer (he calls himself "just a kid") warmed up to his subject.

"The country is in the throes of a mad race for pleasure. Golf, the movies, radios, world series, big football games, dancing—everything, thinking of how to have a good time and not enough thinking on how to use their hands and their brains."

"It's a form of hysteria," Mr. Markland recalled how, for years, when he was building up his gear business he was down to work at 6 a. m.

"Where do you find business men now at 6 a. m.?" he inquired. "On the golf links. One day a week for golf isn't enough any more. It's every day."

"And a lot of these business men can't stand it, physically. It's trying them out. They're all in when they reach their offices."

"Why, we had a business meeting scheduled here yesterday and a lot of the manufacturers were absent. Where were they? Out playing golf and taking in the shows."

"I have always believed that a man gets more pleasure out of work—out of achievement—than out of play. I believe everyone should relax. If a busy man did not he would break down. Golf once in a while is all right but too much is all wrong."

The "hysteria" of Americans for a good time is also manifested by working men who are bent on establishing a five-day week, Markland said.

He also had a word or two for the people who are trying to get rich in the stock market so that they can have more leisure for play.

SENATE COMMITTEE STARTS WITH PROBE OF TARIFF BUREAU

Influence In Rate Questions Object Of Committee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The greatest lobby investigation ever undertaken by the senate got under way today with a senatorial committee turning its spotlight directly on activities of the United States tariff commission.

The initial effort of the senate inquirers was to learn whether the tariff commission ever changed its decisions on rate questions because of political influence or industrial pressure. This phase of the inquiry involved the pottery industry since the first witnesses were Frederick L. Koch, pottery expert on the tariff commission, and William Burgess, former commissioner now affiliated with the U. S. Pottery Association.

"We want to find out first whether any commissioner ever changed his vote on an important rate question under threats of losing his job," explained Senator T. H. Caraway (D) of Arkansas, chairman of the investigating committee. "After that, we will take up the activities of the sugar lobby before going on to other matters."

In connection with the sugar lobby, the committee subpoenaed Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the tariff commission, and Edgar B. Brossard, member. They apparently will be questioned about political pressure brought on the commission in 1923 to prevent a report on the sugar duty. This report was filed subsequently with President Coolidge and urged a sweeping reduction of the sugar tariff.

HOOVER THRILLED BY ATHLETIC WIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—President Hoover got a real thrill out of the sensational ninth-inning rally of the Athletics, which won for Connie Mack his fourth world's championship at Philadelphia late yesterday.

Preserving his benevolent neutrality until that fateful ninth, Mr. Hoover joined with thousands of other spectators in warmly applauding the victorious Mackmen, and then hurried to catch his train back to the capital.

DAYTON, O., Oct. 15.—William P. Steffen, 68, was found dead hanging in a clothes closet of his apartment home here early today.

HOLD "MODEL HUSBAND" IN SLAYING OF GIRL

John E. Preston, 32, a Chicago interior decorator, left, snapped at the Wheaton, Ill., jail being questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Russell Keeney and Coroner Ishewood, following the finding of the body of Miss Matilda Murphy, 26, right, strangled to death near a weed-grown roadside at West Chicago. Preston took the two of them for a ride and forced his attentions on them. Miss Murphy escaped and flung a passing freight train to return to Chicago. Preston has denied the killing, declaring it to be the work of two men who followed him in another machine. Inset above, is Mrs. Lillian Preston, his wife, as she stood at the entrance to the Wheaton jail while her husband was questioned. She maintained that Preston had been a "model mate."

DAWES ARRIVES IN STATES FOR VISIT; DENIES INTERVIEW

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—"Who killed Billy McGwiggan and why?" Also, who killed Cock Robin?

This age-old puzzle—one which police have attempted to solve since Assistant State's Attorney William McGwiggan met death in a gangland roadhouse several years ago, was again the leading question today following the arrest and interrogation of Frank Biege, alias Perry, who is termed by police as "chief executioner for Scarface Al Capone."

"Machine Gun" Jack McGurn was also called that. So were a host of others.

The "inside office" was said today to have some special "dope" on the activities of Biege, but Chief of Detectives John Stege scoffed at the idea Biege was the killer of McGwiggan, "Bugs" Moran's men, and other gangsters.

"All he has is a reputation as a petty stickup man," said Stege. "If this bird had been doing as much monkey business with machine guns as some of these coppers think he did, we would have known all about him long ago. Sure, he may know a lot about gangland killings. So do I. But, have you ever heard of one of these birds cracking yet? They don't."

Biege's wife wrote two threatening letters to Capone in a Philadelphia prison, both of which were intercepted. She demanded $10,000 for "hush money" or threatened that Biege, whom she said was "holding the bag," would "squawk."

"I'm asking you for the last time for that ten thousand and get it to us fast," read the last letter in part. "Frank's sick of you leaving him to hold the bag. You kick across or Frank will go to police and spill the works. Remember, everything."

Frank is now arrested and has been grilled by the best "grillers" in the state's attorney's office and he hasn't "spilled" or "squawked" or "cracked" or given any intimation that he is conversant with any gangland activities. He failed to avail himself of this "golden opportunity." Nor did Frank get the $10,000 from Capone.

The young couple had been married in Covington, Ky., a month ago, against the wishes of Martin's relatives.

LEWIS W. REIGEL IS ELECTROCUTED BY HIGH VOLTAGE WIRE

Fellow Workmen Lose Long Attempt To Restore Life

Lewis W. Reigel, 55, 15 Second St., lineman for the Dayton Power and Light Co. was electrocuted when he came in contact with a high voltage wire while at work on a company pole in front of a new garage under construction on the Springfield Pike near the lane leading to the Xenia Country Club at 2:4 p. m. Monday.

Reigel, who was engaged with other workmen in removing the pole from in front of gasoline tanks to accommodate the garage, is believed to have touched the high tension wire accidentally when he waved his hand to his foreman, Frank Weiss, who was at work on a new pole eight feet away.

In the opinion of fellow workmen, Reigel came in contact with a high voltage wire carrying 12,000 volts when the first finger on his left hand struck the wire as he waved.

Notwithstanding the great amount of current that had passed through his body, Reigel called to his foreman that he had touched a high tension wire. Weiss left the pole on which he was working, and taking a rope climbed the pole to aid the stricken man.

Reigel was standing upright and was conscious when Weiss reached him, he reported. As the foreman attempted to pass the rope around Reigel's waist, the body became limp and it is the belief that death occurred when the body slumped.

The injured man was lowered to the ground and heroic efforts were made by fellow workmen directed by three physicians to restore circulation, using the prone pressure method of resuscitation.

The accident occurred as Reigel was about to take some wire from the cross bar of the pole on which he was working. It was in this moment that he was electrocuted. He was removed for a new one.

Hopeful that a slight spark of life remained, members of the crew with which he worked under Weiss, volunteered first aid. Soon afterward other workmen came to assist and some forty linemen were engaged in working over the body in relay units all hope of saving him was abandoned.

The futile life-saving work lasted nearly three hours and was directed by Dr. Frank M. Chambliss, county coroner, Dr. W. A. Gallo way, company physician, and Dr. Marshall Best, who were summoned and immediately took charge.

A particular task was assigned to each man. Whiskey was injected into the muscles over the heart by the three doctors in an attempt to stimulate circulation. The unconscious man was also given adrenalin and a strychnine injection.

Finally the work of attempted resuscitation was abandoned about 5:30 p. m. when the physicians declared the stricken man was beyond help and the workers who had labored to save his life were called off.

Reigel, who had been engaged as a lineman in different cities practically all his life, was born in Dawn, O., Darke County. He was a resident of Dayton for twenty years, moving to Washington, D. C. several years ago. He had been employed by the power company in Dayton for fifteen years when he resigned. Later he went to Oregon and upon returning to Washington, D. C. resumed his position with the Dayton company. His wife, Lucy, died August 24 and he is survived by one daughter, Marguerite at home.

Reigel came to Xenia to live two years ago and has since been employed as a lineman for the Xenia branch of the Dayton company. He was a member of Dayton Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Other surviving relatives include: Mrs. Charles Kent, 27 Fairgrounds Ave., Dayton, and David and Peter Reigel, brothers, who live at Dawn, O.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the United Brethren Church. Friends may call at the home, 15 E. Second St., anytime after 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

$10,000 DAMAGE ACTION TRIED HERE

Returning a verdict for the defendant Monday afternoon following a trial which lasted nearly six days in Common Pleas Court, the stouter jury denied Mrs. J. J. Bowes, Oshorn, damages in excess of $10,000 personal injury suit against The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Co. based on alleged permanent injury sustained in a grade crossing accident at Oshorn, August 22, 1928. The jury deliberated about thirty-five minutes before arriving at a verdict.

Beginning last Tuesday morning, a trial was one of the longest on record because of the great volume of testimony introduced.

Mrs. Bowes charged that the accident occurred while she was occupied by herself and her husband, Arthur, driven by Phillip Kotkin, who was demonstrating it to them, was demolished when struck by a cut of flat cars being backed across the Xenia Ave. crossing. The railroad was accused of negligence on the ground the automatic signal lights which protect the crossing were not working.

RHEUMATIC PAINS QUICKLY ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA

Happy Lady Lauds Modern Compound—Gave Her Relief After Other Medicines Had Failed

"For a number of years I suffered great pain from rheumatism in my joints and hips," said Mrs. Lillian B. Nelson, 230 N. Center St., Youngstown, Ohio. "My stomach also was a source of misery to me."

MRS. LILLIAN B. NELSON

Every muscle in my body ached and pained from the rheumatism. Gas formed on my stomach after every meal. My stomach bloated and I suffered from heart palpitation.

"Konjola was so highly recommended that I felt it must have some merit and decided to give it a trial. That was the turning point. I rapidly improved and soon Konjola had restored my digestion and increased my appetite. Rheumatism is a thing of the miserable past. In every way I have been benefited. I actually feel twenty years younger. No wonder I am enthusiastic about Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallner Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

MAC DONALD WITH HER FATHER

Premier RAMSAY MACDONALD with two of his daughters, ISHBEL (standing) and JOAN. Ramsay MacDonald with his daughters, Ishbel (standing) and Joan, as they appeared several years ago.

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of intimate sketches on two leading world figures — Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter Ishbel. Others follow.)

By DORIS BERGER WELLES

When Ishbel MacDonald was only eight years old, her mother died, abruptly ending a most idyllic marriage.

Younger than Ishbel were Sheila and Joan. A little older, was Malcolm. Allister was the eldest of the five. But Ishbel was the oldest daughter and the mantle of her mother's responsibility fell to her.

Ishbel's mother was as ardently devoted to the cause of a better social order, as was her father. But this common interest was rather the embroidery, than the stuff of the romance that ended so tragically, leaving only a pervading and beautiful memory.

Perhaps it was the spirit of this early happiness which MacDonald was determined to sustain, when, evenings, he read aloud to his band of motherless children and told them stories, in his inimitable way, of his travels.

Serious, responsible little Ishbel, became the mother of the group. And MacDonald was a companion of her from her earliest youth.

Together they went to the bare ne is in the Scotch fishing village. It is a stern Presbyterian church, offering, as he often says, "no red carpeted way to heaven." But that is after the MacDonald tastes. Not that there was no joy in the family. There was. But it was a Scotch kind of joy—more twinkling than hilarious.

Close to Father

And as the company ship and understanding between Ishbel and her father grew.

Allister became an architect, married and had two children who are the proverbial delight of their grandfather's life. Malcolm went to Oxford, was sent around the world on the debating team of the university, and finally became a member of parliament. Ishbel studied domestic science in King's College for Women until she became a hostess for her father in "the big house" at 10 Downing St. Sheila is in the University of London, Joan in Edinburgh University.

The MacDonald family is grown. Each member is upholding the tradition of that common passion of their parents in helping to make a better world. And, in her quiet, serious way, Ishbel is sharing her father's mission in America, in one of the knottiest diplomatic situations of the hour.

The Most Beautiful BLACK you have ever seen

"THE most beautiful black you've ever seen!" "All my friends admire my new black silk!" "The coat I thought was hopelessly spotted is now a new, beautiful black!" These are typical comments from women who have used these true, jet black dyes.

Diamond Dyes Black never gives cloth a greenish or bronzy look, as so many black dyes do. Like Diamond Dyes Red and all the other Diamond colors, it is easy to use and gives such beautiful results because it is rich in pure anilines. It's the anilines in dyes that give them brilliance, depth and fastness; make them go on smoothly and evenly, without streaking or spotting. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon, or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk and wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The young couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pultz, cousins of the bride and little Mildred Dillie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dillie of Yellow Springs, and niece of the bride, as flower girl.

The bride chose for her wedding a frock of brown chiffon velvet, with accessories to match. She carried a beautiful arm shower of gladioli, chrysanthemums and asters.

The bride's maid, Mrs. Dillie, wore a frock of dark blue chiffon with hat and shoes of black. She carried an arm shower similar to the bride's.

Immediately following the ceremony the bridal party was entertained at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Dillie, where a delicious four course dinner was served. The house was decorated with fall flowers, with yellow predominating in the color scheme. The bride's table was beautifully decorated with dainty fall flowers with a large wedding cake with yellow candles as the center piece. Appointments of yellow and white were used.

Following the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for a week's trip through the East. Upon their return they will be at the home of the bride's parents in Yellow Springs.

Mrs. Brown is a graduate of Yellow Springs High School and of the Springfield Business College. She is also a graduate of the College of Music at Antioch College.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT $1,500 CAUSED BY STOCK YARDS BLAZE

Damage estimated at $1,500, covered by insurance, was caused by fire which destroyed a one-story barn in the Pennsylvania Railroad stockyards and damaged two other barns before it was brought under control by firemen late Monday night.

The blaze started in a barn owned by the Greene County Livestock Shipping Association and because of a quantity of straw and hay stored inside, the frame building burned to the ground.

The flames spread to a two-story barn situated directly across a narrow alley on the south side in the rear of property at 130 Hill St., owned by J. W. Faulkner, Hill St., and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis. This barn was used for garage purposes. The roof and upper story were burned away but two automobiles kept on the lower floor were pulled out safely.

Another two-story barn situated on the railroad property, west of the structure which was destroyed and facing the alley, also caught fire but only the side nearest the flames was slightly damaged. It was also owned by the shipping association. A truck owned by Mr. Faulkner kept inside was removed.

When discovered at 10:48 p. m., the flames had obtained great headway and firemen confined their efforts to saving adjoining buildings from being destroyed. The blaze was brought under control at 11:50.

Origin of the fire is undetermined but firemen are of the opinion that tramps may have been responsible.

Firemen experienced trouble in reaching the blaze. Access to the stockyards was finally gained by the fire trucks through an alley off of Hill St.

Several hundred people were attracted to the flames, which lighted up the vicinity for blocks around.

SPRING VALLEY MAGNETIC WELL SOLD TO CINCINNATI INTERESTS

Sale of the properties of The Spring Valley Magnetic Water Co. on the Bellbrook-Spring Valley Pike, near Spring Valley, to Cincinnati interests for a consideration that was not disclosed, was announced by company officials Tuesday.

The purchaser is John C. Casey, Cincinnati contractor, who represents a number of associates interested in the enterprise. Plans for promotion of the property, long famous because of a well from which healing waters are obtained for all kinds of ailments, have not been announced.

Drilled in 1884, the well has been in existence for forty-five years. Later the flow of water ceased but in 1923 the well was dug to a depth of 1,460 feet and an apparently unlimited vein of the healing water was encountered.

A company was organized, stock sold and there are now thirty-two stockholders, including a number of Xenians.

BIBLE THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

SALVATION AS FORETOLD—Blessed be the Lord God of Israel; for he hath visited and redeemed his people. And hath raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David; As he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets.—Luke 1:68, 69, 70.

ROOSEVELT IN PORTO RICO

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's inauguration as ninth American civil governor of Porto Rico was fraught with happy omen. The new official commenced to learn Spanish immediately after his appointment, so that when he faced the Porto Ricans for the first time, he was able to address them in their own tongue; and he took office amid general enthusiasm.

The colonel's task, however, is still before him. Porto Rico has a population approximately as large as that of Detroit. Its industries are mainly agricultural and cannot be said to be either highly organized or highly profitable so far as the average islander is concerned. The new governor put his finger on the nub of the problem when he said that Porto Rico's economic questions would demand his first attention and that thereafter he would consider the questions of labor, health, agriculture and education.

The task is not a novel one. It generally goes by the name of "the white man's burden." It is the old struggle of the northerner to stimulate a genial people who bask readily under an ever-pleasant sun and stand aloof from progress as we understand it.

Yet the Porto Ricans have a fine heritage. Their island is 95 miles long by 35 miles, amazingly fertile and beautifully set in a tropic sea. It has tremendous potentialities, but these can only be realized if the islanders rouse themselves.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Charley Groise, one-time Delmonico biscuit shooter, is now running a Two-Bites-for-Two-Bites wagon on the fringe of the metropolis.

Signor Siegferth, Reporter Extraordinary and Big Boss Scout Plenipotentiary for Bo Broadway, climbed into his Pray-as-you-enter the other day and chug-chugged out to Groise's Grease Grill for an interview.

"How's your conduct, Charley?" queried Siegferth.

"The old days is gone," sighed Groise, a trifle irrelevantly, "but don't quote me on that."

"I won't," said Siegferth.

TRANSPORTATION NOTES
After a careful study of subway "technique," Dennis Denizen, the eminent psychologist and pavement pounder on Speakeasy Lane voices the opinion that the protective maneuvers of the average subwaysite is nothing more than ordinary animal instinct, such as the field mouse or the wharf rat develop in the struggle for existence.

Reasoning processes get the subway victim nowhere; but after he has been jostled, hustled, elbowed, stepped on, kicked, punched and suffocated, he instinctively learns how to protect himself from the mass of glacial inhumanity that makes our wonder city what it is. The protective coloration of animals and plants is akin to what the average subwaysite practices in his daily trip to and from work.

Don't sneer at this bunch of words. They come from the heart.

ANTIQUES
Some years ago my illustrious friend, Lady Twinchins, the Park-avenor, found herself on Third Avenue in the very heart of the teeming tenements whose occupants spend their lives safeguarding posterity, perishing and paying the debts.

Hurrying back to "civilization," she passed a junk shop, in the grimy and disreputable window of which, dust-laden and crowded between a Baltimore street jar and a defunct Baltimore heater, she discerned a Chinese vase of exquisite design and color. She bought it for 29 cents, and a week later a collector of international repute offered her $5,000 for it.

The story got out and pretty soon all of Park Avenue, on bright afternoons, got to traipsing over Tenement Town, peering into junk shop windows.

Today, for a mile and a half north of 42nd street on Third Avenue, there is a chain of junk parlors, each of them "set" with enough ornamental sucker bait to keep an Ashbury Park boardwalk concessionaire in funds for the rest of his life.

Park avenue and Third Avenue—both of 'em good streets, each in its own peculiar way.

ROTARY'S PLACE

Many doubt the value of luncheon clubs. Many are tired of dull speakers and worse singing. One can think of more entertaining and instructive things to do in an hour and a half than attending a meeting of the Fraternities of the Marching Eagles. But the international organization of Rotary has a chance to be something else. Rotary penetrating the borders of all countries, cross fertilizing the nations, will prove to be the single greatest force for world peace now in operation. Other similar clubs can do as much, if they will.

MAKING PATTERNS

Say Schwab and Veedler, professors in Washington university, St. Louis, authors of a new book about youth: "It is not the first five years of a child's life, as has frequently been stated by the behavioristic school of psychology, which leaves the most indelible impression that influence all the rest of life, but the period of adolescence. "In adolescence are laid down the future patterns of personal conduct, the kind and variety of intellectual acquisition, the receptive capacity to ideas and the possibilities of a spirit of tolerance, of a sense of justice and fair treatment."

It is rather a solemn idea—this making patterns. Dangerous to make the wrong kind of patterns in the brain. It is not easy to strike across lots and beat new paths. We follow the old roads. Young folks are making patterns and making them easily and fast. Some day most of their happiness will depend upon the patterns.

WELLS

Few modern men have influenced the thinking of the average book reader more than a man who has just passed his sixty-third birthday at a place called Easton Glebe, Dunmow, Essex. A place with a name like that would have to be in England. He is Herbert George Wells, born in Bromley, Kent, in 1866.

Wells is a prodigious worker. A marvelous producer. He has written nearly a hundred books. He has written articles and pamphlets by the score. He has given thousands a clearer look at the world than they ever had before. He has written some excellent novels, but they have not been merely entertaining. They have made us think. It's a great man who can make anybody think.

Above almost all modern writers Wells has imagination. He sees a re-made world. He sees all the nations united, working together for the happiness of their citizens. He sees the end of poverty and war.

These things are practical—if not in our time, in somebody's time. They can never come until they are thought about and written about. Herbert George Wells, more than anybody, thinks about them and writes about them.

Wells is a great man. There are few.

ECONOMIC REVIVAL TERMED VITAL TO PORTO RICO
By THEODORE ROOSEVELT, JR.
Governor of Porto Rico.

(Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was born at Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 13, 1887. He is a graduate of Harvard. He was formerly a director of the Sinclair Oil & Refining company and several other concerns. In 1919 he was elected to the New York state assembly, resigning all directorates. He was assistant secretary of the navy from 1921 to 1924. He resigned to become a candidate for the governor of New York. In 1925 he was with the James-Simpson-Roosevelt-Field Museum expedition. He was recently named governor of Porto Rico by President Hoover. During the World war he served in France and was wounded. He attained the rank of colonel. He was an organizer of the American Legion, and received numerous war decorations including the Distinguished Service Medal.)

Economic rehabilitation is the foremost problem confronting Porto Rico, for proper clothing and other life is primarily contingent on economic welfare.

There are certain policies which deserve immediate and careful attention. Relief must be pushed for those suffering from the effects of the hurricane which struck the island last autumn. Markets for Porto Rican goods must be fostered and extended. Industries must be developed. Aid must be given to Porto Ricans who may wish to take advantage of fields on employment in the United States, and work of improving agricultural methods must be kept up.

There are three prime requisites for a happy, progressive people—a good education, good health and a sufficient prosperity to provide sufficient food, proper clothes and proper homes. All three are intimately connected. Each of the three is a necessary complement to the other two; good educational and health conditions are obviously dependent upon the material prosperity necessary for their support. In all three respects at present conditions among our people of Porto Rico are far below what we would have them.

All republican forms of government depend on the average of their citizens. It is on that that they stand or fall. A group of brilliant men, such as Porto Rico possesses, is very valuable to a nation, but her true strength depends not

THE GREAT HUMAN PUZZLE

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

When Nature takes on its exquisite fall coloring and all the world is gay with brilliant reds, browns and gold—every woman looks at herself critically and wonders if she, in her appearance, harmonizes with such heavenly loveliness.

When I watch women during the hot summer months, swimming and riding, and giving themselves up with abandon to all the joys of summer sports, I often wonder if those with unprotected complexions realize the havoc that reckless abandonment can play with their complexions. Faces raised to the sun ungarded invariably become parched and dried.

By the time fall comes, however, there is little use in talking of what might have been. It is better to concentrate on corrective methods.

This season the distinctly feminine will be more in demand than ever before. All the very best courtesies of Paris, watching the women gambol at the most fashionable beaches, evidently decided that for the fall a new life would begin. Surprisingly they brought the waistline back, declaring it to be an essential of fashion. They lengthened the skirt for daytime wear as well as evening—and brushing aside the boyish form which they took years in creating—they now declared: "No, no, no—after all, you are a woman," and pointing to the women who inspired Rubens, have made them the new criterion for beauty and fashion. Fashion may have vagaries, but I do believe that our French courtesies are largely responsible.

Now the brown skinned, bare-legged, muscular woman returning from the mountain and shore, must immediately set to work making herself as delightfully feminine as possible. Of course, the field of the courtesies belongs to others than myself, but in these articles I shall outline, or rather review for you, the various steps for beautification necessary this fall, so that you may be in tune with the new mode.

In reviewing beauty from top to toe, I shall spend successive days in reminding you of the respective primary beauty rites for hair, eyes, skin, hands, and so on, down to the feet.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — The fuse sputters viciously as every passing day brings the requisite spark for a terrific explosion nearer to the southern textile powder barrel.

A few more killings here, an additional kidnapping or flogging there, a fresh strike some other place—such is the warning sizzling. Plenty of people can see and hear it, and all of them are crying out in alarm—except the folk who will be right on top of it when the blast does come. Their sole preoccupation is to prevent anyone from recognizing that the slightest danger exists—which obviously must be recognized if the fuse is to be stamped out in time to prevent a catastrophe.

During a long two hours on a recent afternoon I looked on from the gallery at the fight which Senators Simmons and Overman, of North Carolina, were waging in opposition of the Dixie-land textile industry.

Other southern senators also betrayed a keen interest in the struggle, but these two evidently considered themselves especially "under the gun," inasmuch as the worst of the recent trouble in the cotton milling region has centered in their state, and it is there that an inquiry into textile pay and working conditions presumably would be, if at all, most immediately unpleasant.

on them, but on the temper and worth of the rank and file. No amount of brilliancy among the leaders can raise the average without reasonable prosperity. Therefore, while we should attack all education and economics—it is upon the last that we must first center our efforts.

In so doing we must not be deceived by temporary palliatives. We must strive for permanent solutions. An artificial stimulant which gives momentary relief is often followed by a severe relapse.

The goal we must hold before our eyes is the creation of conditions whereby the average man can obtain for himself by his own labor, nor by gifts or charity, government or private, a comfortable living for himself and his family. When we approach this we can justifiably say to ourselves that the future of Porto Rico and her children is assured.

number of years that northern employers have appreciated the value, to themselves, of a prosperous class of workers. Henry Ford's $5-a-day minimum in his factories preceded the World war by no more than a twelvemonth or two—and was regarded by many as an extremely dangerous experiment.

Dixie's textile industry, I would judge, from harkening to Senators Simmons and Overman, must be just about at the stage where Yankeeism capitalistic and labor groups went to the mat with the another—and settled their fight, and are now on pretty good terms again.

One might suppose that the south would profit from the north's experience, thereby saving the former a lot of trouble—but who ever does profit by experience, vicariously?

GARNER FALL ROSES
Candied Rose Leaves
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

Select one pound of freshly cut pink roses. Pick the petals off one by one and drop them in water. Drain off the fluid and press petals in your hand to bruise them gently. Set on a sieve to drain. Take one pound of the best white sugar, add sufficient water to dissolve it, and allow it to boil to a syrup. Clarify the syrup and then drop in the rose petals. Allow the syrup to boil up six or seven times. Remove from fire and allow to stand until the sugar forms a coating around the petals. Then drain off and set the petals apart on paper until they are perfectly dry. The petals are now crystallized, and should be placed in paper lined boxes in a cool, dry place. Plums, oranges, orange blossoms, violets, ginger and watermelon may be treated in the same way.

To clarify syrup, the white of one egg and one pint of water is enough to clarify eight pounds of sugar. Beat the egg whites to a froth in a dish with a cupful of water, which should be added slowly to the egg during the beating process. Put the sugar in a kettle and dilute it with half the egg mixture. When it is thick set it over the fire and allow to boil up twice, then skim it. Continue to add the egg by degrees until the scum on top is perfectly white. Add a cup of cold water to carry off any remaining scum. Take it from the fire and strain. The sugar can then be set aside for future use.

Marmalades
A marmalade may be made by combining one quart of peeled diced yellow tomatoes with two pounds sugar. Add the grated rind of two lemons and two oranges. Simmer until thick. If the mixture seems too sweet, lemon juice may be added. Bits of orange pulp may also be put in at the time the grated orange rind is added. Green tomato marmalade or conserve may be made by using same recipe but adding a half cup of raisins, and just before taking from the fire putting in one-half cup broken walnut meats. A tomato butter calls for four pounds red tomatoes, four pounds apples or plums, combined with one teaspoon ground cloves, and one-half teaspoon ground cinnamon. For these ingredients measure three and one-half pounds sugar and two quarts sweet cider. Cook apples and plums in cider until mushy. Rub through sieve, add remaining ingredients and cook in a slow oven until mixture is thick. Put in jars and cover with paraffin.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Walking to Reduce

"DEAR DOCTOR: I know nothing of your reducing methods, but please let me cite my case briefly. I am a young woman of 25 and have always been inclined to stoutness. Eleven months ago I weighed 162 pounds. I started walking to my work, which is about two miles, and I walked to and from the office every day, whether it rained, snowed or was a nice, sunny day. In eleven months I lost 20 pounds, despite the fact I never dieted at all. Really, I ate as much as I ever did. Surely, then, walking briefly must be very beneficial to those who are overweight. I just hope that all of your readers will try to walk more and I'm sure they will be greatly benefited."

"Will you please tell me what my correct weight should be? I am 5 feet 5 inches tall."

According to the rule of allowing 110 pounds for 5 feet in height (in stocking feet) and 5½ pounds for each inch over, you should weigh around 137 pounds, without clothes. Miss X. You can vary 5 per cent above, or below, this figure, depending upon the heaviness of your bones, and still be normal.

You are certainly right about the walking. It is a splendid exercise, not only for reducing, but for general health. I recently wrote on its benefits and I'm glad to run your letter now, as a confirmation of my statements.

Theoretically, a person weighing 150 pounds (with clothes) uses up about 300 calories an hour while walking briskly, but I'm sure that it is instrumental in using up more than this, for it speeds up the metabolism. (The better chemistry) long over the period of walking, so that the food is burned more effectively. And even if but 300 calories were used up, if that 300 had been taken daily in excess of what was needed, the daily brisk walk of an hour would prevent you from gaining 27 pounds in a year! Reckon it this way: 300 C. times 365, totals 109,500 calories. Divide by 4,000 (the number of calories in a pound of fat).

Many cannot understand why they have gained when they have apparently eaten no more than usual. The answer is either that they are mistaken and have eaten more than usual, or else they have lessened their physical activities. The only check-up on the energy value of the food is to count its calories. Only 100 calories daily more than is needed, will cause a gain of nine pounds a year. And one can easily take 100 C. without realizing that he is increasing his number. For instance, 100 C. and more, can be taken by having the same quantity of food a little richer than usual.

Thank you for writing, Miss X. I anticipate that your letter will stimulate many to begin to get benefits from walking.

(Those who need instructions on how to regulate their diet for gaining or losing weight may have our pamphlet on the subject by following column rules.)

Will you tell me whether or not one can contract cancer by coming into contact with a person who has one? I'm upset because I've been told that one could. I have a woman friend who recently returned from the hospital after having an intestinal cancer removed, and I have been calling on her. Is it safe for me to do this? MRS. M.

No, cancers are not contagious. There is no danger whatever in visiting your friends, or even nursing them, Mrs. M.

If you would like to have some literature on the subject, I suggest you write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 25 West 43rd street, New York City.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

ELAINE: As Jack is going with another girl, now, I don't see what right you have to try to win him back. You are not the one to say whether his present girl is a suitable companion for him or not. Joe doesn't sound like a very good choice of a husband, as he drinks, gambles, etc.

The latest boy friend sounds good to me, but, of course, you are not interested in him, and I think you were very unwise, to say the least, when you accepted a diamond ring from him. He must consider you are practically engaged to him.

No, don't give him a birthday present, and give him back his ring, excusing yourself by saying that you are not engaged and you are afraid people will misunderstand as you have his ring. Don't think of matrimony until you are older and know your own mind.

JUST SUZANNA: Thank you for your nice letter, my dear. You surely will be happy, as you and your friend both have the right spirit of comradeship. You are wonderfully blessed, and I am sure your future will make up for all the heartaches of your childhood.

Poor Flossie is 16. Her mother is willing she should go with boys but her father isn't. He broke up one friendship by insulting the boy friend. Then she had another friend and they met on the sly. They parted, and the first boy loved the boy. Flossie is sure she loves this boy, and he loves her. Now she doesn't want to go with other boys as she wants to be true to her naval lover. Father says she mustn't go with boys until she's 21. What shall she do?

Well, Flossie, as long as you don't want to go out, and yearn to remain true to the boy in the navy, why worry? Make a pal of your dad and see if you can't eventually win him over. You have four years to do it in, you know. And you will be 21 when the boy friend's term of enlistment is over.

You are the baby, you know, and the only girl, and your mother thinks you are something very precious and should be kept in cotton wool. He's mistaken, but it will take diplomacy to make him see it. However, if you and your mother go tacitly to work, I think you'll win out.

PAL: Maybe your sock will go up by and by. Pal, and you will be one of the popular ones. I often happens so. Then your love and patience may be rewarded.

MAE: Why are you unhappy, Mae? Because you have no father and mother, because you can't marry yet, or what? If you possibly can, finish high school, then take your nurse's training. And cheer up, dear. High school is jolly, and the training to make you a nurse will be interesting. And you have a boy friend for whom you care and who cares for you. Try to look at life in a cheerful way and have a good time as you go along. You'll find it much the better way.

IN LOVE: The boy friend certainly is willing she should go with you if he did not like you, dear. And he will let you know by his words and actions if he grows to love you as you love him. You can't force his love, and I think I'd not mention the matter to him. It would be embarrassing to you both. I can't understand why he only dances with you once or twice when he takes you to dances. The smart usually dances at least three times with the girl he takes.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THEIR OTHER SELVES

Peter was so interested in watching the caterpillars on parade that he hadn't noticed Sir Butterfly for some time. Now he heard that insect give a little cry. "Well, of all things, how on earth did you happen to come, dear old thing?" said Butterfly. "I never expected you. How did you know that I was here? I didn't know that I was coming myself."

"I happened to meet Yellow Fairy and he told me after the ball he had seen you come over here and he knew there was going to be a meeting of the Moths. He guessed you were going to it. And Hawk-Moth's Caterpillar told me he was joining the other caterpillars so I thought maybe you might need me."

"I don't know that I will actually need you," said Butterfly, "but I am mighty glad to see you. Stay right here beside me and we can talk about old times until our turn comes, to tell our story, if it does."

The boy heard this conversation with some surprise. Turning squarely around he saw his friend's new companion was a beautiful green caterpillar with twelve rings on his body. On each of these rings was a black band and on each black band were gay yellow spots.

"Gradually how he scared me!" exclaimed Butterfly snatched. "That is exactly what he wanted to do," said he. "He was afraid you were going to touch him, and not knowing you, he was afraid you would hurt him. He did that to protect himself. Clever, wasn't it?"

"Dear me, I am sorry if I have offended your friend." The Caterpillar who had shown his horns to Peter acted much ashamed of himself. "I acted too quickly, as usual, but it always scares me half to death to be stared at by a stranger."

"Oh, don't apologize," said Peter, quickly. "I shouldn't have been so rude. But you are a very striking fellow, did you know it?"

"Do you really think I am?" asked the fellow. "You should have seen my father, he was far more handsome than I."

"Silence," demanded the chairman at this point. "Now that we and our 'beginners' are here, we can begin this council in earnest. It happens that it is just time for most of the assembled caterpillars to enter the pupa state. That we may learn how we can better conditions for the general welfare of our caterpillars, in turn, are going to give us exhibitions. We will tell them how the eggs we laid from which they hatched, the caterpillars are even as ready." Very well, then, the chairman said, we will begin our story when you have finished your story where behind his head. The boy your caterpillar may continue."

SPORT SNAP SHOTS FRAMED by Phil

Xenia Central's band of football warriors, having plumed the depths in losing to Pliska High last Saturday by a greater margin than any Xenia eleven has been beaten since 1925, will be called upon to face Friday afternoon at Cox Field a Withrow High School team said to be the strongest developed at the Cincinnati school in years.

With the Bucaneer squad in its present crippled condition, the outlook is not bright to say the least. Xenia gridders are not lacking in the fighting spirit that has always characterized Bucaneer teams but it will take more than that to beat the Withrow Tigers.

Led by Freddy Ratterman, flashy quarterback, the Tigers have been howling over opponents' right and left this season and have yet to admit defeat.

Having nothing in particular to lose, the Buc on the other hand will have everything to gain in the Withrow game.

Xenia-Withrow gridiron rivalry began in 1926. Since that year three games have been played, the Tigers winning twice. Withrow won the 1928 game, 7 to 0, on a muddy field and in 1927 defeated Xenia 19 to 13. Last season Xenia battled Withrow to a scoreless tie.

The prognosticator (what ever that is) this week is none other than Glenn McPadden, himself, in person. "Mickey," who is perhaps better known for his exploits on the diamond during the recent softball season, has defied Old Man Upset and has forecast the result of twenty-two of the big football games carried for Saturday. Look these selections over:

Western Reserve to beat Akron. Carnegie Tech to beat Wash. and Jeff.

Case to beat Oberlin.

Dartmouth to beat Columbia.

Cornell to beat Princeton.

Boston College to beat Dayton.

Cincinnati to beat Denison.

Army to beat Harvard.

Illinois to beat Colgate.

Illinois to beat Iowa.

Ohio State to beat Michigan.

Ohio U. to beat Muskingum.

Pittsburgh to beat Nebraska.

Penn State to beat New York U.

Northwestern to beat Minnesota.

Notre Dame to beat Wisconsin.

Miami to beat Ohio Wesleyan.

Pennsylvania to beat California.

St. Xavier to beat Centre.

Navy to beat Duke.

Wilberforce to beat Fisk.

Brown to beat Yale.

Those Philadelphia Athletics, now baseball champions of the world, apparently do not know when they are beaten. Twice the Mackmen pulled games out of the fire when their cause appeared hopeless.

On Saturday the Athletics went into the last half of the seventh inning on the short end of an 8 to 0 score and then uncorked a rally that dwarfed anything ever seen in a previous world series. Before the Cubs could retire the side ten hits had been made and ten runs were across the plate. The game ended 19 to 8.

Monday, in what proved to be the series finale, the American League champs added insult to injury. This time they did not roll up ten runs in one inning but they might have at that. Held to two hits and blanked by the sturdy arm of Pat Malone for eight innings, Philadelphia appeared doomed to lose, 2 to 0.

The first batter was retired in the last of the ninth and then Mack's henchmen broke loose. With a suddenness that left the crowd stunned and the Cubs bewildered the score was tied on Bishop's single and a circuit drive by Haas. Then the Athletics proceeded to win the game on a double by Simmons, a walk to Foxx and a two-bagger by Miller.

And so the 1929 world series is all over but the shooting in Chicago when the unfortunate Cubs wander back home.

FRATERNITY WILL GIVE MUSICAL SHOW

Special music is being planned and all the latest song hits and a few older numbers will be used. Elaborate ensembles, featuring a fashion parade by living models will be a feature. Special lighting is being arranged and sets are being painted by Archie Maxwell.

Members of the cast will be notified at a later date and the first rehearsal will be held at the Phi Delta Kappa rooms on the second floor of the Kingsbury building, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

There will be a business men's luncheon at the First A. M. E. Church this evening. Come and meet our business men of the city. Dinner ready 5:30 p. m. Mrs. Maggie Maxwell, chairman.

Chicago Cubs Beaten But Not Out-Gamed

MACK CONCEDED FIFTH GAME TO CUBS BEFORE RIOTOUS RALLY

Malone Pitched Superbly Until Ninth, When He Made Two Mistakes; Connie Praises Joe; Series Was Financial Success

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Outside, a city bereft of all reason shrieked its paeon of joy, capering, gibbering, rioting with an abandon that was boundless. It had just been a witness of the most incoherent spectacle a world series ever had known, a chills and fever finish that had brought glorious victory and a world's championship to Philadelphia, tragic defeat and a sense of sickening disaster to Chicago.

Inside, the dressing room was dark and its vast quiet, by comparison, was ominous. Newspapermen, callous souls usually, waited with unwonted consideration, their voices lowered to a respectful note.

The curtain had been lowered for the last time. "Mule" Haas and "Bing" Miller, the stars of the piece, had bowed themselves off. Probably the greatest drama a world series ever had produced was over. And the old maestro, having outlived the years to see this day come true, was unable to take his curtain call. Connie Mack, the man who made the miracle possible, had collapsed in his hour of triumph.

That was yesterday, five minutes after Haas had hit a home run over the fence, tying the score with one out in the ninth inning, and Miller had followed with a double to right center, scoring Simmons with the winning run.

Today, the world, having indulged itself in its orgy of emotion, was at peace again and Connie Mack, himself once more, was able to make the curtain speech that the choler of his advancing years had denied him yesterday. It was typical that his first word was a tribute to the rival manager, Joe McCarthy, and his second a frank admission that he had conceded this fifth game of the series to the Cubs and had been rehearsing his plans for a sixth game that never came.

That was how fine they drew this series, in spite of the fact that the Athletics were four of the five games and outlived the Cubs from first to last. They never out-gamed the Cubs for one split-second. And the half-raising finishes of Saturday and yesterday, far from disproving this declaration, actually sustain it.

On Saturday, the Cubs were in front, 8 to 0, going into the final half of the seventh inning and were beaten by a record ten-run rally. This was made possible alike by Charley Root's inexplicable collapse, a blinding sun that caused Hack Wilson to lose two flies in the same inning and a pebble that caused Simmons' smash to leap gladly over McMillan's head.

Yesterday, the Cubs went into the last half of the ninth behind a 2 to 0 lead. The Athletics' cause was all but hopeless. The first man French, a pinch hitter, was brushed down on strikes and hope's tiny flame flickered and almost died. Over a period of eight and one-third

YEARLING CLASS IN FOOTBALL STARTED BY CENTRAL COACH

Looking forward into the future when there may be a dearth of football talent at Xenia Central High School, this possibility is being guarded against by the organization of a combined eighth grade and freshman grid team at the high school this season.

Sixteen eighth graders and four freshmen turned out for practice Monday afternoon, working out and learning fundamentals under the capable supervision of Glen Patterson, assistant high school coach. It will be Pat's task to teach the young but willing recruits the rudiments of the ancient and honorable art of football, experience expected to prove invaluable in later years when they become candidates for high school teams.

It is probable that several games will be booked this season for the team. The first game may be played in two weeks against Dayton Oakwood High if it can be arranged.

Two other Miami Valley League schools annually put freshman football teams in the field, thereby providing good material for the high school teams in after years.

Bowling Scores

Two existing league records were shattered as the Buicks won two out of three games from the champion Greene County Lumber Co. in a Recreation League bowling match Monday night. In winning the second game the Buicks tallied 1,018 pins, exceeding the previous record of 993 for high team single game, also held by this team, by twenty-five pins. Pesavento's record of 234 for high individual game was bettered by one pin when Hollis Peterson, anchor man for the lumber company quintet, rolled 235 the second game. The winners amassed a three-game total of 2,750. Box score:

JAMESTOWN SEASON MOST SUCCESSFUL; ONLY FOUR DEFEATS

Barney A. C. Club And Reserves Nemesis Of Team

The Jamestown Independent baseball team recently ended a successful season with a record of fourteen victories against four defeats to show for eighteen games played.

The Independents, after losing their first game of the season, braced up and won the next two, then were defeated by the Barney A. C. team of Dayton in eleven innings. Then five straight games were won, when they met the Barney O. C.'s for the second time, and were again defeated in eleven innings. The Independents again won five straight games, but their winning streak was again broken, when they lost to the Xenia Reserves, for the county title.

Only two of the victories were a shut out, but the Independents compiled a total of 117 runs, an average of better than eight to a game as compared to 67 markers for opposing teams, an average of slightly better than three and a half a game, indicating the team has been getting good pitching while the batting has been consistently good. Evans was on the mound in every game, except one, Lucas pitching the Fourth of July game.

Games played and scores:

Reo Flying Clouds, 9; James, 3. Irish A. C., 5; Jamestown 13. Benny A. C., 3; Jamestown, 5. Shamrocks, 2; Jamestown, 3.

Xenia Reserves, 1; Jamestown 1. Dayton Travelers, 1; Jamestown 13.

Although the Independents' batting honors have changed, several times during the season, a revision of the records shows the team finished with a batting average of .250. Kiser topped the individual batting average with a percentage of .380. The following is the number of games played in, playing records and batting averages:

GEDARVILLE MEETS KENTUCKY ELEVEN

None the worse for the Ohio Northern game as far as its physical condition is concerned, Cedarville College's football squad commenced practice this week for the game with Kentucky Wesleyan at Winchester, Ky., Saturday.

Return of Peters, end, and Marshall, tackle, who have been recuperating from knee injuries, cheered Coach Marvin Borst Monday afternoon as the squad held a light workout.

Barring injuries in practice this week the entire squad is expected to be in fine physical condition for the Kentucky Wesleyan tilt.

WITHROW WILL BE "EQUIPMENT DAY" Foe HERE NEXT FRIDAY

Battered in body by the fierce rushes of Pliska's fighting team but aroused to the necessity of making a better showing in coming games, Xenia Central High School's football team begins work this week in preparation for the invasion of the Withrow High School Tigers of Cincinnati Friday afternoon at Cox Field.

In a sense this will be the homecoming game of the season for the Bucaneers for the day will be celebrated as annual "Equipment Day" so called because all proceeds from the contest above expenses will be used to purchase athletic equipment for Xenia team's next year.

The Withrow game is not fraught with much uncertainty but the Buc on rest content if they make an improved showing over the last two games which have resulted in overwhelming defeats. It will be difficult, however, to hold the Tigers to a low score as Withrow, represented by its strongest team in years, has whipped all opponents by overwhelming scores this season.

Xenia Central followers, after watching Pliska ride rough shod over the Buc for a 34 to 6 victory last Saturday, have small hopes of winning from Withrow but hope only that the heavy Cincinnati eleven will not damage Wilson's squad physically any more than necessary as a majority of the players will be crippled even before the game starts.

The will be no lack of interest in the game, however, for the student body is laying plans to stimulate enthusiasm. Starting at 7 o'clock Thursday night, there will be one of those old-fashioned "pop" parades through the business district of the city, probably winding up in a march to the athletic field or Shawnee Park where a huge bonfire will be kindled and "pop" talks made.

It is also possible there may be another parade of students Friday noon and also an assembly of the student body on the morning of the day of the game in order to arouse the students to lending their vocal as well as moral support to the Bucaneers against Withrow.

The squad was in such a bristled condition Monday afternoon that Coach Wilson called off practice but the gridders probably would have liked the ordeal of a workout much more than the lecture which the Xenia mentor gave the players instead. "Pinky" told them what faults must be corrected in no uncertain terms and the team that takes the field Friday will be a scrappy one at least.

No scrimmage will be indulged in.

FINDS HIS CAREER

Radio Claims Tenor Who Began As Court Stenographer

ALAN RAY

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.)

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Alan Ray has a dual personality. It is rare that we find the heart of an artist and the brain of an engineer all mixed up in the same person.

Zanesville, O., claims the clever tenor as a native son. His career is one of the most interestingly hectic one we have yet encountered on the air.

Began as Stenographer

First he was a court stenographer in Columbus. Then he took up accounting, thinking it a wider field for study and broadening. Being a professional entertainer was the farthest thing from his mind. He worked as an accountant for Henry Ford for some time. Let us hope he didn't have to keep count of the flivvers!

Then came the Florida real estate boom—and who should be found laboring feverishly among the perspiring get-rich-quickers and the Southern palms—but our celebrated (but then unknown) Mr. Ray. During this time he liked to sing—and studied voice off and on as a hobby. Once in awhile he appeared as an amateur, singing with a jazz band.

Finally his friends began to bring pressure to bear saying that an artist like himself was positively crushing his soul dealing in figures and worrying about engineering problems! There it was then! The soul of an artist battling against the brain of an engineer.

Still is Methodical

The artist finally won and Allen Ray, in a very short time, was a celebrated addition to the "mike." He hasn't quite gotten over his desire to be methodical, however. Alan has every song in almost every language one can imagine in his library. They are filed—each in their own little place and with their own number, with such beautiful precision that he can go in the dark and find them. It is the despair of every impatient "artist" he knows.

Alan's great joy in life is his mother. It is almost amusing to try to get a few interesting things about himself from him. Everything is "MY MOTHER." She is Mary Weston Seaman—also a star on the air—who does "Browsing Among Books."

He said her one of the loveliest compliments we have ever heard when he sat back shining-eyed and proud and said:

"You must meet my mother. She is an ARTIST at LIVING!"

Enthusiastic Son

Then he told of their apartment in New York and how they had gone out bargain hunting together and fixed it up with lovely drapes, pretty nick-knacks—and how he painted an old cabinet in lacquer and Mother bought just the vase to enhance it!

Carbon that won't foul even a spark plug

can't choke a high-compression engine

How often has the rattle of a carbon knock found you dropping back a little...babying your car...slowing down on every hill?

And needlessly! For there is one oil—Shell Motor Oil—which stops carbon before it starts. Shell Motor Oil has an extremely low carbon content—far less than other fine oils, including many selling at a higher price.

And the small amount of carbon which forms in a Shell-lubricated engine is soft, fluffy and completely non-fouling...it actually blows away with the exhaust gases. It won't foul even a spark plug. It can't clog a high-compression engine.

Regular users of Shell Motor Oil report a marked saving in carbon removal jobs. They enjoy freedom from power losses due to

"frozen" piston rings and carbon-pitted valves. And they know the complete satisfaction which comes from driving a sweet-running automobile.

Shell Motor Oil is prepared only from Nature's richest lubricating crude by the new Shell low-temperature refining process. And before it reaches you, it is tested 259 times to certify that every quart possesses the four essentials of correct lubrication: Low Carbon Content, Non-Fouling Carbon, Ideal Body at All Operating Temperatures, and Low Pour Point.

STOP AT THE SIGN OF THE SHELL—And let the Shell Lubrication Chart be your guide. Courteous salesmen await you at the familiar yellow and red service stations. Convenient everywhere.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

has the 4 essentials of complete and proper lubrication

To the woman who drives her own car—we say: "Try Shell for 30 days"

One month's driving with Shell Motor Oil in your car will show you improved performance and amazing trouble-free service. Regular use will show you marked economy of operation.

400 "Extra Dry" Gasoline. A clean-burning, hard-hitting motor fuel whose mission in life is "more power to you."

A PRESIDENT'S SON

"The Home of Thrift"

A President's son and a Governor's daughter—both possessing that sturdy New England blood that is not moved by every passing influence—have set an example of domestic Thrift and Economy that may well be emulated by the young people of this country.

Back to the home and the pursuit of those wholesome, humble tasks that were once the part of everyday life, may prove to be needed protection against the evils that may come out of our unparalleled prosperity and luxury.

You decide what will be your own financial program and do not be overpersuaded by the reckless example of your improvident friends. It is only "three generations from shirtsleeves to shirt-sleeves," and the children of your extravagant neighbors may be serving your children tomorrow.
